Richardson for Governor

Congressman C. F. Curry says of Friend W. Richardson, Republican candidate for Governor:

"I have known Mr. Richardson for 40 years and have observed him closely in public office as State Printer and State Treasurer, and know, that his record is spotless. He has been an efficient official and has reduced expenses without crippling the efficiency of the office. 'I know that he will give the people of California a good administration and place California back in the rank of states where she belongs.'"

The people will be burdened with high taxes and high cost of government just so long as they permit the politicians to go uncurbed,—which will be until the seventh day of November, 1922.

Those who would defend the excessive cost of State government in California are forced to many extremities. One argument advanced is that the State government is now relieving the counties and cities of a large amount of work—and hence the county and city taxpayers of great cost.

Let us examine the record. In 1913 the costs of government in the various branches were as follows:

State	$22,900,416.40
County	56,313,491.41
Municipal	67,089,259.36

Total $146,202,267.27

In 1920 the costs of each branch of the government had increased to the following amounts:

State	$ 61,908,139
County	120,655,663
Municipal	76,747,095

Total $259,310,897

Our population in 1920 was 3,426,861. Thus, for each inhabitant there was expended $75.67 by the combined State, County and City Governments. The county and city taxpayers do not appear to be much relieved from the expenses of local government by the inordinate increase in state expenses.

Friend W. Richardson stands for economy in the administration of State affairs.

Four years ago Theodore Bell was a candidate for governor on a wine and beer platform. He was defeated by 168,000. "Nuff said!"

The tide has set in for Richardson for Governor. It is running strong. There was never any question that it would ebb the other way, but its volume is now so pronounced, and is gathering such strength from all quarters, that the flood can never be stopped.

Reports from the South are that Richardson will carry Los Angeles by 50,000. Another estimate is that he will come to the Tehachapi with 100,000.

U. S. APOLOGY IN BOOZE ROW BOY MURDERS GANG BULLY

NEW PREMIER LACKING ON FOOD CABINET

Lord Northcliffe's Brother Comes To Aid of Lloyd George; Parliament Closes Tues.

London, Oct. 21.—Lord Rothmere, a brother of the late Lord Northcliffe, who was a bitter opponent of former Premier David Lloyd George, today sprang to the defense of the Welsh statesman.

Lord Rothmere's greatest hostility was against Lloyd George's policy in the Near East. In his defense of the ex-premier today Lord Rothmere said:

"There is a widespread belief that the people will recall Mr. Lloyd George into power again. There is no other statesman in Europe of his calibre. None of the men around him can be called his equal. He is the most notable man in public life since Oliver Cromwell."

CABINET STILL IN MAKING

Andrew Bonar Law has not yet succeeded in obtaining promises from enough Unionists to form a new cabinet. It is now generally accepted as a fact that Bonar Law himself will hold two portfolios—premiership and foreign secretaryship. In such an event the new British foreign policy probably would embrace drastic reduction in British commitments abroad. The Near East policy would be recast and a big play would be made upon domestic economy.

Articles for Bazaar Made at Sewing Club

Mrs. Frances was hostess to the Sewing Club on Contra Costa Temple, Pythian Sisters, on Thursday afternoon at her home, 541 Fourth street. The afternoon was devoted to sewing in preparation for the bazaar to be held in Pythian Castle on Saturday, November 4. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Evelyn Miller, 571 Tenth street.

Those present on Thursday were Mesdames Backerleg, Hillman, Bowyer, Rufert, Hutson, Miller, Delaney, Gertrude Smith, Mary Smith, Archibald, Pitzer, Caldwell, Richards and Michel and Miss Lina Hutson.

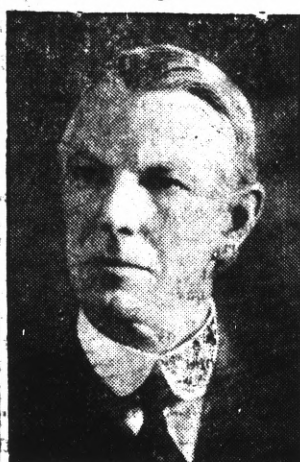

CAL. AGAIN IS VICTOR, 25-0

Before a crowd that packed California Field and flowed out over the turf, the University of California 'Varsity eleven proved its claim to title of "wonder team" by defeating the Olympic Club 25 to 0. In a bitterly contested game, yesterday afternoon.

The club eleven, with its galaxy of former stars, held the Bears scoreless in the first quarter, and during most of the third period kept the ball in California territory. "Rabbit" Bradshaw, the Olympic quarter back, was easily the star of the game with a number of brilliant runs.

"Brick" Muller, All-American end, broke into the game for one quarter and displayed flashes of his old-time brilliant playing.

Curry Pleased Over New Harbor Project

CHARLES F. CURRY

As the result of an inspection of harbor improvement being made by Congressman Charles F. Curry yesterday he was much pleased with the progress that was being made. Much of the success of the harbor appropriation is due to the present congressman.

Mayor E. J. Gerrard accompanied the official on his tour of inspection. Curry has no opposition this year, but he is keenly interested in the welfare and success of Friend W. Richardson, Republican candidate for governor. Curry says that there is no question but what he will be successful; that the people of the state believe in the promises he has made, and the sentiment in his favor is growing stronger in every section that he visits.

Curry has known Richardson for many years, and he knows whereof he speaks when he says that Richardson will make the people of the state a "first class governor."

Club Commemorates Its First Anniversary

The first anniversary celebration of the Missouri Club, in the Richmond Clubhouse last night, will go down in the annals of the club as a most memorable and happy event. Friends and members responded to the extent of filling the clubhouse to capacity. A decorative plan of Halloween ideas was carried out most effectively, with orange and black streamers everywhere in evidence and potted plants and yellow flowers in profusion.

Dancing was enjoyed in the ball room by many of the guests. Those who did not care to dance spent the evening at cards, prizes going to: S. H. Gnaga, first; Mrs. A. Perry, second; Mrs. Ralsin, third; J. S. Splers, fourth. About 11 o'clock all repaired to the banquet room where a sumptuous repast was served by the refreshment committee.

Baraca Boys Enjoy Girls' Entertainment

The Wesley Methodist church parlors were the scene of an enjoyable event on Friday evening when the Philathea girls entertained the Baraca boys. The parlors were prettily decorated in Halowe'en colors and large Jack-o'-lanterns. Refreshments were served after an evening pleasantly spent in music and games.

SEIZURE OF BOOZE SHIP BIG BLUNDER

United States Must Apologize to Great Britain for Seizure of Canadian Schooner

Washington, Oct. 21.—American prohibition agents blundered when they seized the Canadian schooner Emerald with a liquor cargo off the New Jersey coast—an act for which the government must now express "regret" to the British government, it was disclosed officially at the treasury department today.

For the first time since the dry era began, the state department will be called upon to apologize to a foreign government for an over-zealous enforcement of the United States liquor laws.

The official inquiry today established to the satisfaction of Secretary Mellon that when the dry chaser Hahn ventured eight miles off shore, trained her guns upon the liquor laden Emerald, and brought her into the port of New York, American officers committed a serious breach of international comity and agreement. The facts are said to establish that the Emerald had not established communication with the American shore by means of her own boats or her crew.

Protest Well Founded

The British government's protest the first of its kind lodged with the state department, challenging the right of this government to seize the British boat, is now held by the treasury department to have been well taken.

The British embassy will receive a response to its protest very promptly, because there now is no question as to the facts surrounding the seizure.

The state department will be called upon to make restitution to the owners of the Canadian schooner; at the department of justice it was declared that District Attorney Hayward at New York will take immediately steps to restore to the Canadian ship owners the 1,000 cases of whiskey which was aboard the Emerald at the time she was towed into the port, and further steps will be in order to compensate the owners against other sustained.

Pacific Porcelain Co. in $175,000 Expansion at Its Three Big Richmond Plants

A total of approximately $175,000 worth of improvements are under the course of construction at the three plants of the Pacific Porcelain Company in Richmond at the present time. At the San Pablo plant additions are either completed or about to be completed. The capacity of the San Pablo plant has been tripled by the addition of new kilns, a new brining plant, new slips and other new additions and equipment, according to

W. A. Potter, superintendent of the plant. At the Barrett avenue plant the company is erecting a new office and minor improvements which will cost approximately $60,000. At the plant in North Richmond improvements which cost in the neighborhood of $55,000 have been completed or are under way. The pottery and plumbing fixtures industry is growing into one of the big industries of this city, and Pacific products are recognized as the standard of the West.

Class of '19 of Richmond High In Its First Reunion

The Richmond club house was the scene of a gay and colorful event last evening when forty members of the Class of '19 of Richmond Union High School gathered to celebrate the first reunion of the class. The affair proved to be a decided success and will long be remembered by those fortunate enough to be back for the evening.

The event opened with a seven o'clock dinner served by the ladies of St. Edmund's Guild. The banquet room was beautifully decorated in Halloween colors, while the tables were brightened by a tasteful arrangement of chrysanthemums and ferns.

Linus Cassidy acted as toastmaster in a capable manner. Splendid talks commending the reunion were made by Superintendent of Schools Walter T. Helms, Principal and Mrs. Bert X. Tucker, Miss Elizabeth Kinnear, Miss Zelma Reeve and William H. Neeley, the guests of honor for the evening.

Following the banquet, the assembly repaired to the ball room, where dancing was enjoyed for the remainder of the evening. The music

YOUTH SLAYS YOUNG FOE IN S. F. THEATER

Series of Abuses Led Boy to Kill His Enemy in Rear of the Mission Theatre in S. F.

San Francisco, Oct. 21.—Confessing to the murder of Thomas J. McCormick, 16, because, as he claims, the latter was a "bully and bruiser," William Robert Lynch, also known as Bell, 17, was arrested late this afternoon. Lynch lives at No. 4 Church street, and is employed by J. H. Newbauer & Co., wholesale grocers. He has a step-father named Bell, and frequently is known under that name.

Quarrel Began in Theater According to his story to the police, which in a measure is supported by two boy witnesses, the killing was the culmination of a series of quarrels, the last of which occurred in the lavatory of the Mission theater a few minutes prior to the tragedy.

"I killed McCormick because he was a bully and bruiser," Lynch told the officers. "He had been picking on me for a long time, and we had two previous fights. One of these occurred in a poolroom on Tuesday night, and there was another one in another poolroom on Thursday night. 'I became afraid that he would get me, and I decided to carry a gun to frighten him off. I was at the New Mission theater last night when he came in. He started picking on me again, and continued it in the lavatory. There was a fight there, but it was stopped and we went out into Bartlett street, between Twenty-first and Twenty-second.

"McCormick started things then by throwing an open knife at me. I then fired five shots at him."

"More business and less politics. When I become governor I will throw out the political wrecking gang and put a construction crew on the job."—Statement of Friend William Richardson, who has just been nominated by the Republicans for Governor of California.

"HE KEPT US OUT OF WAR"

"War in the East, Peace in the West. Thank God for Wilson!" Who does not recall the campaign slogan of the Democrats in 1914 when they were urging the people to continue them in control of Congress in order that the party's counsels might not be divided; the Mexican situation at that time was acute. President Wilson had refused to recognize Huerta—the strong man of Mexico—and encouraged his opponents. Ambassador Wilson and President Wilson had disagreed on the Mexican policy and the former had resigned July 4, 1913, the president thereafter maintaining his communication with Mexico through personal representatives without diplomatic rank. On August 27th the president announced his policy of "watchful waiting" to congress. Carranza and Huerta were at war for control of the Republic. France and Germany were concerned regarding the safety of their nationals; Benton, a British subject, was killed February 18, 1914. France and Germany and Great Britain kept warships in the gulf waters and were prepared to order landings. American citizens in Mexico were pleading for the protection of the Stars and Stripes. They were told by the administration that they were at their own risk; many of them were removed from danger zones by British and German war vessels.

On April 19, 1915, several U. S. marines who had gone ashore to buy gasoline for ships' launches, were arrested by the Mexicans. They were finally released, but Admiral Mayo demanded a salute to the American flag, which was refused by Huerta. President Wilson then ordered a fleet to Vera Cruz, a force of marines was landed and 18 Americans were killed. But the salute was never given. Through the efforts of Mr. Wilson, Carranza was placed at the head of the Mexican government and he soon proved to be the most treacherous foe this country had in Mexico. But the congressional campaign was on in the United States, the Underwood tariff had put the Democrats in disfavor with the people, and some issue must be found to distract their attention. That issue was peace—even if without honor. It brought home the bacon.

Again in 1916, a presidential campaign was on. The insults heaped on America are matters of history wherein the Lusitania sinking registers a climax which was tamely submitted to. But again an issue was vitally necessary to the Democrats and the country was told that "He Kept Us Out of War." The people were solemnly assured that the election of Hughes would mean war with Germany, while the election of Wilson would be a perfect guarantee of peace. The issue served its purpose. Yet, in 1919 the Democratic leaders admitted that in 1916 they knew the situation would go to war with Germany.

On both these occasions there was an ardent desire for peace, no doubt. "We must be neutral even in thought." But in the Near Eastern embroglio just ended the administration and the state department have been utterly swamped by the bellicose demands of those who one month ago were staging a "no more war" day, that we go to war with Turkey "at once, regardless of cost." The administration has refused to be stampeded and it now looks as if the storm clouds had blown over. But if the Republicans needed the issue could they not with equal justice say to Harding "War in the East, Peace in the West. Thank God for Harding, who kept us out of war."

THE BROMIDE PLAN

Experts who point out methods by which Europe can reduce indebtedness to the U. S. A. fail to develop much originality. The time-honored idea that the way to get rid of a debt is to pay it asserts itself with persistence.

MISSOURI REFORM SPREADS

Missouri democrats, having adopted the Goddess of Liberty as their political emblem, displacing the donkey; it is now up to the Indiana democrats to make a hit with the women voters by substituting the hen for the rooster.—Indianapolis News.

THE WAGE INCREASE

The nation can spare the millions that will be required to raise the wages of the common laborers of the maintenance of way department of the railroads. It can turn over this money and a lot more with better grace than it can pay the salaries of officials, the great sums used in speculation and the charges put upon the transportation systems by parasites.

It is a revelation to some people that anyone now working on a railroad should draw so little at $2.50 a day. But that is all a track digger could expect under the wage scale that prescribes 23 or 25 cents an hour. And he would have to work ten hours a day to get it. Two and three cents an hour increases mean only 16 and 24 cents a day added to the pay of a man working the accepted eight hours. Who can maintain a decent standard of living at that rate? We know of some who can't even do it on three to five times as much.

There is a lower limit to wages, if American standards are to be maintained. Among the higher levels, there can be set up some agreement between the workers worth and his hire without cutting him down below the point where he can live. And, it seems, the pay of some of the track and yard men has been fixed below this point.

THE LEGION'S FIGHT

As long as there is divided responsibility for the care of the disabled veterans there will be cause for those kicks to high heaven that are voiced through the veterans' organizations. The American Legion is leading the fight to consolidate the government's work in behalf of those who suffered in the war. It is striving to bring under the single head of the veteran's bureau all compensation payment, all rehabilitation and all training.

It is pointedly up to the president to do what he can to shift the burden of woes off the shoulders of General Sawyer. He cannot, of course, change the law by merely wanting to, but he can use the famous old-time weapon of the president—the big stick—to see that the law is changed.

General Sawyer is probably a mighty fine old fellow as a country doctor, but he is completely out of his element as director of the hospitalization bureau. That is a part of the government that demands a great deal of special knowledge and an understanding of the broadest possible policies.

Hence, the Legion should be backed up in its efforts to bring about further coordination of the government's bureau for treating the disabled veterans.

THERE'S A REASON

In 1919 the legislature passed a bill requiring all state commissions to report their expenditures to the governor and the legislature, which was vetoed. Again in 1921 the legislature passed a similar bill, which was also vetoed. Expert accountants employed by the Richardson for Governor Newspaper Men's Committee, could find no records of expenditures by money of the commissions at Sacramento. These accounts are not open to the public. There's a reason. When Friend W. Richardson becomes governor he will account to the people for every cent of their money, no matter by whom, or for what purpose, it is expended.

German government property in allied countries and former German colonies was valued at $2,500,000,000 gold marks, or about $600,000,000. The United States got not a penny of it, neither was any of it used by the new owners in paying a single dollar of interest on the debts they owed this country.

A former bartender has been nominated to congress in a mid-western city. This may solve the problem as to what we should do with our former bartenders.

Frances Hanner Laid To Rest Yesterday

RICHMOND INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION

The Richmond Industrial Commission, the staunch and permanent development organization of this city that has worked for the growth and betterment of Richmond from the time the city was incorporated will hold its first meeting since the vacation period next Wednesday. The meeting will be at Martin's Grill-luncheon.

The public is invited to attend all meetings of this organization—not only invited to attend but urged to do so. The Industrial Commission, which is merely a Chamber of Commerce or a Commercial Club, under another name knows that these open meetings, if attended by progressive citizens are a great force for the upbuilding of any city.

Therefore the organization wants everybody with an interest in the future of the city and the welfare of its citizens to attend all meetings.

Besides this the Richmond Industrial Commission holds its rolls open to all who wish to become members and help in its work of development.

It not only keeps its rolls open to membership but it urges everyone to join. Both money and members are needed to conduct successful work of this sort. Here are some things that have been said about this organization by people who observe:

"The Richmond Industrial Commission never makes much noise. Its motto is work and achievement, but as its endeavors become more and more known to all the people its standing and influence grow."

"This organization has a reputation of always doing those things only and getting behind those things only that are to the best interests of Richmond. It is an independent organization, never afraid to do just what is right and to work in the open and effectively for those things that are right—and it knows what is right and what is best for the city. That is all easy to know. The right is always obvious."

"The Richmond Industrial Commission always is ready to give the fullest co-operation to all official and civic bodies that are truly working of the advancement of Richmond. One of its mottoes is that 'anyone or any body of persons that will from any sort of an organization that will spend one dollar or devote one ounce of energy in the cause of Richmond's progress should receive every aid and encouragement.' It acts upon this motto, co-operating with every organization that gives indications of efficiency and permanency."

Colonel W. S. Rheem, former president of the Standard Oil Company of California, was the first president of the Richmond Industrial Commission. He took an active personal interest in the new city and the welfare of its people and was always energetic in those things that promised more and substantial growth. His desire was to see a prosperous modern city grow here.

Beside its work for harbor development the organization has been instrumental in locating a number of the largest industrial plants here. It has backed bond issues for new schools and other improvements, raising the money among its members for the educational campaigns necessary. It carried out the annexation campaign by which that portion of the city east of Twenty-third street was annexed. It has brought hundreds of prominent men of finance and industry here to show them what Richmond offers in the way of shipping and manufacturing location. It has spent thousands in advertising and publicity for the general good of the city. It has been responsible for building of hundreds of homes. In fact it has carried on the general work of a commercial organization, operating on the bigger and more effective lines and achieving results that have had a large influence in the unusual growth of the city.

Its work still goes along the same sure lines and it asks more membership and financial support.

"The people know what this organization is," its friends say "and they know it is entitled to the help and co-operation of everyone with any interest in Richmond."

NEW INDUSTRY FILES

A new industry for Richmond is assured with the filing of articles of incorporation of the Metals Atomizing Company, organized by three San Francisco men. The company is capitalized at $300,000 and will establish its principal place of business at Richmond. It is incorporated for mining and processing of metals. The organizers are E. D. Bronson Jr. R. L. Carlisle and Roy A. Bronson of San Francisco.

Richmond Water Front Showing Harbor Improvements

The water front of Richmond is naturally divided into three parts as follows:

1st. The San Pablo Bay Frontage, lying to the north of the city and east of San Pablo Bay, consisting generally of shallow water and forming a continuation to the north of the center of the city.

2nd. The Outer Harbor Frontage on the west, at the base of the Potrero hills, between Point San Pablo on the north and Point Potrero on the south.

3rd. The Inner Harbor Frontage on the south, comprising a basin lying between Point Potrero, Brooks Island, Point Isable, Stege and Ellis Landing.

The lengths of the actual shore line at mean low tide on the three main sections of water frontage are, 4.8 miles, 8.0 miles and 6.0 miles, a total of 18.8 miles.

LOCAL POLICE SEEKING MAN

The police of Richmond are looking for a dapper fellow, about 35 years of age, who floated into town this week, raised some ready funds by means of bogus checks, and then disappeared.

The checks were cashed by business men about the town, and by the time they were put through the banks and found worthless, and report made to the police the guilty party had flown.

One of the checks for $22 was passed at Fisher's grocery store, one for $55 on F. Anclote, and the third for $5 was cashed by Paul Nelquist.

It was the same game that has been worked for years: Some goods were bought, a check was offered in payment—always larger than the bill of goods—and the cash was handed out to the suave stranger.

The bogus paper were apparently pay checks on the Pacific Coast Brick Company, and they were made to appear genuine by the use of a check protector.

So far the police department has no clue as to the guilty party.

RICKENBACKER IS GOOD AUTO

Motor car enthusiasts would do well to look into the merits of the new Rickenbacker car. If the true worth of this car were generally known we predict that there would be nearly as many seen about town as one sees of the Ford. Simplicity is the outstanding feature of the entire mechanism, and the car as a whole is wonderfully built. Beauty stands out all over this truly wonderful car. Mr. B. Divers and Mr. H. Penman have the car on display at their garage on Seventh Street. We have had the pleasure of driving this car about town and feel that the little space we have given it is hardly a word of praise. When you have ridden or driven it you will agree with us.

Mr. Divers and Mr. Penman invite their friends and those interested in purchasing to come in and try the car out. You will not be disappointed. Try the hills, see how gracefully it takes them. Try it in traffic; try it every way and if you are not surprised, we miss our guess.

BUYING SEASON JUST AT PEAK

People have money to spend for autos and are willing to buy now, if they get maximum value for every dollar invested.

In fact, it looks as if the 1922 buying season has just reached its peak instead of being about over, according to Frank Scholes, local dealer, referring to Overland and Willys-Knight motor car sales since their big price reductions, September 18th.

From Maine to Southern California, dealers of these cars made new sales records in quick time, following the latest reduction—the second this year.

Within four days, the Southern California distributor wired orders for twenty-three car loads of Willys-Knights and Overlands. Des Moines, Iowa, bought more Willys-Knights in forty-eight hours than in the whole month preceding the low price. The very first day after the reduction, Huntington, West Virginia, bought fifteen of the two cars.

Even in the northernmost states, like Maine and Vermont, where the snow plow is scheduled to begin its winter work about this time, a number of small dealers have sold one or two cars each day since the price cut, in towns of only a few hundred inhabitants.

In explanation of these increased sales, dealers say that Overlands and Willys-Knights are now lower priced than any other cars with quality, features and advantages such as they possess. They especially cite the Overland's patented overhanging, triple spring suspension, giving a 130-inch comfortable riding base on an easily handled 100-inch wheel base. Also, its greater braking surface, totaling one square inch for every fourteen pounds of car weight, as well as its all-steel body construction, real baked enamel finish, greatly strengthened rear axle and economical mileage records.

Besides emphasizing the Willys-Knight as the lowest priced car ever sold with a Knight sleeve valve motor they call attention to its velvet action clutch, ease of steering, adjustable front and three-quarters floating rear axles, and its beautiful body lines.

BUSINESS PROPERTY SALE

The business property located at 21 Macdonald avenue the main business street of Richmond was sold this week to H. A. Johnston reported for the sum of $12,000 for an investment. This shows that Macdonald avenue property is in demand not only for business but is considered at the prevailing prices a safe and sound investment. Mr. J. A. Johnston stated that in the near future he thought seriously of building a modern business block on the property acquired.

The Evangelist Band of the Berkeley Divinity School will also be present at some of the services. A large number of the members from the First Baptist Church of Richmond, will attend and help in the services.

All these services will be worth while and the prayers of all Christians are asked that they may be a great blessing to the community.

CAR BUSINESS IS VERY BRIGHT

Speaking generally of the automobile business things look unusually bright, Mr. L. Sedlmayr of the City Hall Garage, said today.

Some months ago there was a shortage of cars but that situation is entirely relieved now. As a matter of fact, I could get a car load of the new Oldsmobile if the sales would warrant it. The cars I am displaying are typical of every advanced idea in motor car building. A number of people who are driving old cars never can know what a vast difference there is in the new type. Many take it for granted that a motor car builder makes the same type of car year after year, but that is not so. Particularly in the new Oldsmobile one can see many changes that excel in every department the old models. The modern way of doing business is via the automobile, pleasure, too, is well represented in going from place to place during one's business calls. And then, of course, the week-end outing are things that make the automobile indispensable.

AUTOS AND BALL ARE HIS HOBBIES

Those who are brave enough to venture to the ball park today are promised a Class A article of baseball, Mike Dolin, who whipped the Thomas H. Wilson team together, says he has the strongest team in the Tribune League. We are going to win sure says Mike, and some of the players say, "for the love of Mike," we'll have to win. Go to it, Mike, we're strong for you; treat 'em rough, they like it.

Mike makes baseball his hobby. During the week he is kept busy selling automobile accessories at his own establishment 1111 Macdonald avenue (The Auto Supply Store). Mike is not a new comer in these parts, having played ball in the Twilight League for three years. If personality and cheerfulness play any part in winning baseball games, Mike ought to win. We hope he does.

Viola Dana Seen in Thrills and Comedy

Another part has been found for Miss Viola Dana, the little Metro star which seemingly was especially constructed to provide her with an opportunity to display that reckless devil-may-care vivaciousness in the portrayal of which she is surpassed by no actress.

"They Like 'Em Rough" is her new, est vehicle and it opened yesterday at the Macdonald theater, where an appreciative audience gave every sign of complete satisfaction with both the star and her picture.

The story is a most amusing one with a touch of adventure and well flavored with thrills. It concerns one Katherine Trowbridge, a willful little minx who only needed to be told to do a thing to be consumed with a determination not to do it.

"They Like 'Em Rough" is a Harry Beaumont production for Metro, written and adapted by Rex Taylor and photographed by John Arnold.

Richmond Now 12th City in California

Richmond has moved up to twelfth city in California. Think of that for the State's youngest city and be glad you have property here.

The fact that Richmond had nothing to recede from when the war ended—no plants that had been built up by the war that would have to be curtailed or closed, is one of the reasons why this city is enjoying such substantial prosperity and advancement now.

Plans already made for 1923 show that the next year will beat all preceding ones in construction in Richmond.

This city is growing, growing—expanding all the time. Population is coming fast.

Los Angeles wins first place as Pacific coast manufacturing center; $1,289,095 .64 paid in manufacturers' taxes.

TELLS STORAGE BATTERY CARE

Interesting topics seem to spring from the most ordinary things. Read what Mr. S. S. Ripley of Fourteenth and Macdonald has to say: A storage battery does store electricity. It makes it by reaction. This chemical reaction goes on slowly, when the battery is not in use.

If the battery is laid up for more than four weeks, it should be charged or put in storage, otherwise it is liable to be ruined. In hot weather a battery has less work to do and will, therefore, more readily retain its charge. It may also overheat, gas, and perhaps be ruined if the temperature of the battery and the charge rate of the generator are not watched.

Mr. Ripley says a good way to test the temperature is to touch the top of the connectors and if they feel hot, run with your lights on for a time.

Friday the Thirteenth Brings Bad Luck

"Hello, there, old superstitions. Did you live through Friday, the 13th, all right?"

"Oh, I lived through it all right, but my luck was bad. I knew it would be. My overcoat, that I bought new just a year ago, was taken by mistake while I was eating dinner at a restaurant. By golly, it was hanging near me, too, and how it got away is more than I know. Can you beat that for luck?"

"Gosh, old man, I am sorry as the deuce. You were bound to celebrate Friday as an unlucky day, so you got your bum luck all right. But that doesn't sound very consoling, I know. I realize what tough luck it is to have a nice, fresh, new expense staring a man in the face suddenly."

"The deuce of it is, I can't dig up the ready cash very easily, and I'll freeze stiff in the meantime."

Say, Fred, I know the very place. You had better take a trip out to Cherry's at 528 Thirteenth street right now and get that overcoat before you have a nice cold. Cherry's has mighty good looking overcoats and sell them on credit. You can pay a small amount down and make arrangements for monthly payments. Darn convenient, I'm telling you!"

Cherry's store for women is at 515 Thirteenth street.—Advertisement.

Richmond 2000 A. D.

In 1849 California, started the world with the discovery of gold by Marshall, thus the State of Sunshine and prosperity, became known to part of the universe. What I see in Richmond, California, 1949, the Centennial year of California, a new metropolis, which has gained the prestige, the business, commerce, and population 1949 of the coast.

The greatest commercial, industrial, and shipping center of the western coast, all most out ranking its older arrivals. A Harbor, that is unequalled and from it, flying ships of all tonnage and under all flags. With Richmond facilities. I see the building of thousands of factories with many diversified products. Business buildings some 12 stories, from the point to hills of Contra Costa several blocks north and south. But what pleases my eyes in 1949 is the many residences and homes, and is a fact the city of brotherly love has nothing on Richmond, as a city of homes.

Well friend of Richmond what is your population and valuation now 1949? Well by gosh they say over 300,000 and they are worth $100,000,000 and we wonder what will be the history of Richmond in 2000.

NEW WAY TO REPAIR TIRES

Many new methods are being employed in repair work on automobile tires. Tires that ordinarily would be thrown away are now made over and seem to be equally as good as new.

Mr. M. A. Kastelle, who conducts the Civic Center Vulcanizing company, located at 311 Twenty-third St., has the most modern method of making over a tire that would be hard to equal. The writer of this article took pains to examine some of the work done at the foregoing concern and feels that Mr. Kastelle has worthy comment coming.

During the three years Mr. Kastelle has been in business in Richmond he has made hundreds of friends simply by his good work and his up-to-the-minute way of conducting business. One would do well to have a talk with the proprietor of this concern before throwing their old tire away. It's economy.

Richmond Leads In Factory Race

Richmond leads every city in California in manufacturing, excepting the three largest, San Francisco, Oakland and Los Angeles.

Richmond young industrial seaport, giant, new among the cities of the West Coast, has made some great strides during the last 20 years.

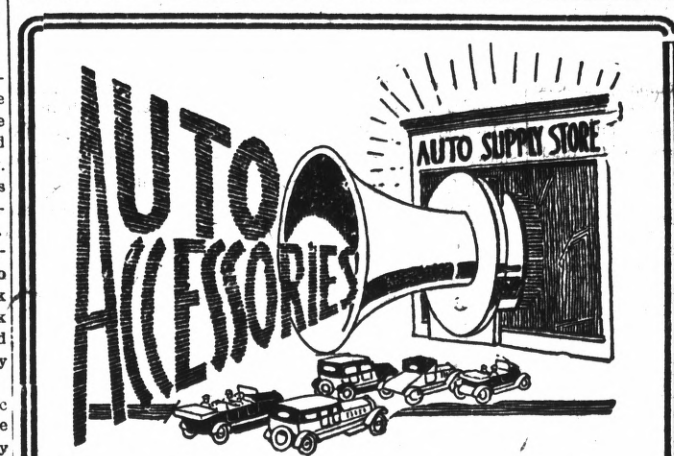

It is this progress that causes so many to bank their faith on Richmond and make it the place for use of their capital, either by investment in property or by establishing enterprises.

Richmond manufacturing investments, totaling over $33,000,000 is almost twice that of Berkeley, a third greater than that of San Diego and far ahead of Sacramento, Stockton, San Jose and other big "second-size" cities.

The capital invested in manufacturing in the eight cities is given in 1920 as follows:

Richmond $31,649,000; San Diego, $23,175,000; Stockton, $21,658,000; Sacramento, $19,387,000; Berkeley, $16,565,000; San Jose, $16,398,000; Alameda, $11,812,000; Long Beach, $5,377,000; Vallejo, $4,265,000 (navy yard not included).

The Case and The Girl

his way out. It angered him to realize how easily it had been accomplished; not so much as a blow struck; no opportunity even for him to cry out an alarm—only that dark cabin, and the threatening revolver shoved against his cheek. He wondered where McAdams was; perhaps hunting him even then on the pier; and Sexton, what had he succeeded in discovering out at Fairview? That Natalie Coolidge had returned home, no doubt. At least he no longer believed she was with this yachting party—evidently there was but one woman on board. Yet, whether she was there or not, it was clear enough from what he had heard that this sudden voyage of the Seminole had some direct connection with the mystery he was endeavoring to solve. That was why he had been decoyed aboard, and made prisoner—to keep him silent; to get him securely out of the way. Yet this knowledge revealed nothing as to what their real purpose was.

What did they intend doing with him now that he was in their hands? Joe had declared his fate would be left with Hobart. Then it must be that they had a rendezvous arranged somewhere with that arch-conspirator, some hidden spot along the lake shore where they were to meet shortly, and divide the spoils or make further plans. Hobart unquestionably was the leader of the gang; but who was the woman? She had evidently been in Mike's place the night before, and had a glimpse of his face. She must have left with that party in the automobile, yet she surely was not the one who had dropped that note begging the police to search this vessel.

What then had become of the other? If she was being held prisoner, it was not at all probable she had been left somewhere ashore; apparently she had reason to know where she was being taken—to the Seminole; otherwise she would never have written their plans, before she hastily scratched off the note desperately; and yet these plans might have been changed. However, if so, why were these people—accomplices of Hobart no doubt—fleeing in the yacht, seeking to conceal their identity in an effort to disappear? What were they fleeing from? Why were they so fearful of discovery by the police? What would cause them to kidnap him, merely on suspicion that he was a friend of Natalie Coolidge? The very act was proof positive of the desperation of their crime. It could be accounted for on no other theory.

West paced the narrow space, his brain whirling, as he attempted to reason the affair out, his own helplessness becoming more and more apparent. What could he do? There was but one answer—absolutely nothing as he was then situated. He could only wait for some movement on the part of the others; his fate was out of his own hands; he had been a fool, and must pay the price. The cords about his wrists chafed and hurt with each movement. The metal washstand gave him an inspiration; its upper strip was thin, and somewhat jagged along the edge; possibly it might be utilized to sever the strands. It was better to try the experiment than remain thus helplessly bound. With hands free he could at least defend himself.

He made the effort, doubtfully at first, but hope came as the sharp edge began to tear at the rope. It was slow work, awkward, requiring all the strength of his arms, yet he felt sure of progress. He could feel the strands yield little by little, and redoubled his efforts. At last, exerting all his muscle, the last frayed strand snapped. His wrists were bleeding, and the hands numb, but the severed cord lay on the floor and he again had the free use of his arms. The sudden freedom brought new hope and courage. He listened at the door, testing the knob cautiously. There was no yielding, and for the moment no sound reached him from without. The woman was doubtless there on guard, and any effort he might make to break down the door would only bring the whole gang upon him. Unarmed, he could not hope to fight them all. As he stood there, hesitating, unable to determine what to do, he became aware of a throb-bin... increasing in intensity. West knew instantly what it meant—they were testing out the engine; if all worked well, the boat would cast off.

He sprang back to the port and stared out, eagerly hoping that, as they swept out into the lake, he might find some opportunity to communicate with some one on the pier. Perhaps by this time Mac would have arrived, and be watching their departure, unable to intervene, as he had no warrant for arrest, or any definite knowledge that the yacht was being used for a criminal purpose. He had not long to wait. Hurrying steps echoed along the deck; a voice shouted out some order, and the end of a loosened rope dropped splashing into the water astern; the boat trembled to the pulsations of the engine, and West realized that it was at first slowly, then more swiftly, slipping away into the broad water. He still stood there, gazing back at the fast receding pier; gradually becoming blurred in the distance, but hopelessly. He knew now he must face his fate alone.

CHAPTER XIII

The Fate of a Prisoner.

The Seminole headed straight out into the lake. No sound of movement or speech reached West's ears from the cabin, and he settled down into moody thoughtfulness, still staring dully out through the open port. What was to be, would be, but there was nothing for him to do but wait for those who held him prisoner, to act. He was still seated there, listless, incapable even of further thought, when the door was suddenly unlocked. He had barely time to arise to his feet, when the man with the red bandage stepped within, facing him, as he pushed tightly shut the door behind. The fellow's eyes saw the severed rope on the floor, and he smiled, kicking the strands aside contemptuously.

"Smart enough for that, were you?" he asked. "Well, I would have taken them off myself, if I had thought about it. How did you manage? Oh, I see; rather a bright trick, old man. The man's tone, and air of confidence was impressive; beyond doubt he felt that the cards were all in his hands. West drew in his breath sharply. "May I ask a question or two?"

"Fire away; I'll answer as I please."

"Who is the woman on board?"

"Mary, you mean? Hobart's wife."

"She came from the place on Wray street last night in an auto?"

"Yes; I brought her along myself."

"Alone?"

"There were two of us, Mark and I—why, what are you driving at?"

"Just putting some broken threads together. Then Natalie Coolidge is not on this yacht?"

"I should say not. What would we be doing with her out here?"

"Where is she, then?"

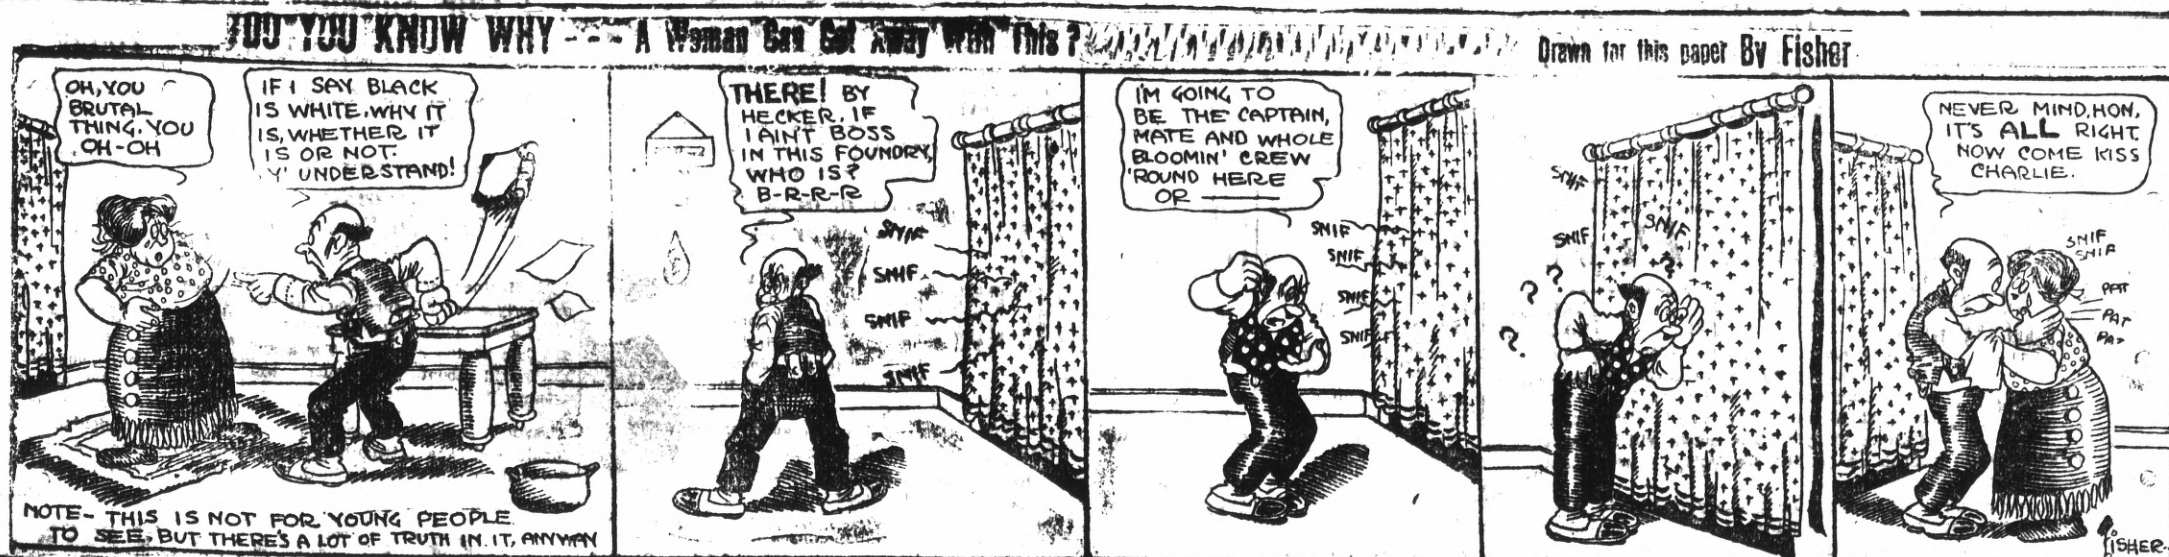

"Oh, I don't see what brought her."

Standard Service

With our experience and equipment we have a notion that we could work out a pretty fair sort of battery service without much help.

But we also have an idea that it wouldn't be a bad idea to have the brand of service developed for our use by the Willard Storage Battery Company.

As Battery Headquarters we have the benefit of their years of experience, and of the definite national standards of service they have been able to develop as a result.

Come in! No matter what make of battery you happen to have it needs the sort of attention provided by the Willard Standard of Service.

CITY MAY FILL THE TIDELANDS

A proposal that the city of Richmond arrange for the filling of 20 acres of tidelands it owns at the foot of Tenth street, while the harbor is being dredged was made in the city council last night by Councilwoman Marie Ogborn. Mrs. Ogborn said she understood the Point Richmond Canal and Land company was contemplating having its waterfront property filled during the dredging and that it would be a good time for the city to do likewise.

Harbor Manager Jackson Misner suggested that the government be asked to call for alternative bids on the next harbor contract, permitting the city to retain control of the material dredged from the harbor. He said he believed enough would be saved under this plan to fill the city's property. The city council accepted the suggestion and will take it up with Colonel Herberly, Deakins, U. S. Engineer who has charge of the harbor work here.

STAR ENJOYS COLORED SKIT

Following the regular business meeting of Beacon Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star last evening a very much enjoyed Black face skit was put on by members of the lodge. The skit, entitled "An Evening Round the Cabin Door" was featured by a number of very good musical numbers in keeping with the general atmosphere of the affair, snappy repartee and spookie readings.

The stage gave a very striking appearance in the form of an archway banked with corn stalks. Following the skit a banquet was served consisting of foods in keeping with the remainder of the program. Coffee, pumpkin pie and autumn fruits were on the menu. The tables were uniquely arranged in the form of a great star and were tastefully decorated with streamers of black and orange, spooks, witches on broom sticks, etc.

Those participating in the skit were Dr. W. W. Giberson, Ludwig Johnson, William Hansen, Mrs. Clara Hansen, Mrs. Jennie Conwell, Miss Winifred Conwell.

Five Headline Acts Feature of T. & D.

Hudson and Jones' offering "On the Bridal Path" will be the headline feature offering on the big new vaudeville bill that is booked to open at the T. & D. theater today. This is a beautiful skit and one that has been a great favorite in every house in which it has been shown. The Rita Winters Trio entitle their act "A Novelty Song Feast" and carry their own special scenery in which to stage it. It has many numbers of wide appeal. Roubie Sims is billed as a "Comedian and Cartoonist." He has a lot of funny chatter and his drawings are sure to please. He has scored a big success in every house in which he has appeared. Durno will present a "Novelty Unicycle and Unsupported Pole Balancing Act" that is something of a thriller. "Courage" is the title of the film feature of the bill.

"Courage," well named, well acted and well directed, is a photoplay of compelling interest and fine ideals. It has a fascinating plot which deals with the imprisonment of an innocent man for a crime he did not commit and whose plucky wife manages a great industry through the direction he secretly gives her from his cell bars. It is a great story of a steadfast love, of tragedy, pathos, happiness—and courage, which is the big dominating theme.

The photoplay is adapted from Andrew Soutar's story of the same name, with Naomi Childers, a beautiful and charming actress, in the leading feminine role, and Sam G. Grasse as her leading man. Others in the cast of this First National attraction, which was directed by Sidney Franklin, are Lionel Belmore, Adolph Menjou, Lloyd Whitlock, Alec B. Francis, Ray Howard, Gloria Hope and Charles Hill Mailes.

Narrowly Escapes Injury in Smash-up

Al Hartner of 441 Locust street narrowly escaped injury when he and his Indian motorcycle figured in a smashup at the corner of Tenth and Macdonald about 7:30 o'clock last evening.

Hartner was driving east on Macdonald and was attempting to pass the Hudson car driven by E. G. Tool-ridge, of 541 Fifth street, just after the two had crossed Tenth street, driving in the same direction. Hartner failed to notice that Toolridge intended to turn into the oil service station until it was too late to avoid a collision. He swerved and his motorcycle slid completely under the Hudson car. By jumping from the motorcycle Hartner escaped uninjured. His machine was somewhat the worse for the experience. Toolridge's car was undamaged.
